

Existing overland runoff from the western part of the site currently flows north to south, potentially entering the rear gardens of houses along the northern side of Glebe Road

Existing overland runoff from the eastern part of the site currently flows west to east towards the existing watercourse

The existing watercourse flows north to south, leading from Lytchett Matravers, towards the Sherford River